It was pointed out also that the colonial office in London would be promptly advised of any mishap to Mr. Roosevelt, and since nothing had been heard there this was an additional indication that the rumor was merely a news sprite from the field of the sixth sense. According to latest cable despatches Mr. Roosevelt is hunting on the Guas Ingishu plateau and will return to Londiana in about five weeks.

As to her accusations against Burlingham, an American newspaper man, and others whom she charged with complicity in the crime, Mme. Steinhell said that in her frenzy she had taken recourse in anything that seemed to promise clearing herself of the charge.

Led Fainting from the Room.

It was just after a savage attack had been made upon her veracity by the judge that the climax came. Mme. Steinheil's attorney protested, but the judge retorted hotly that the accused woman had lied throughout—that her story was a tissue of lies. A short recess was taken, but when Mme. Steinheil returned to the stand again she was unnerved by the ordeal and was led, fainting from the room.

Several policemen were examined late in the afternoon concerning what they saw at Mme. Steinheil's house after the murder, and shortly after-
